In the most exciting game ever witnessed on the Hill, Hamilton beat Colgate 6-5. It took 12 innings to do it, but victory was inevitable all through the game. Although Hamilton threw away chance after chance to sew up the game, the team was able to tie the score only after a desperate ninth inning rally in which two runs were pushed across the plate. And these came when Colgate's fourth pitcher was trying to keep our men off the bases.

Accustomed to defeat, players and students were sustained through the gruelling uphill fight by the steady confidence of Coach Pierce and his low-voiced, "We'll get 'em yet; keep right after them."

Rally after rally was cut off by the sharp fielding of both sides. Hammond and Johnson made fine stops of hits that were labelled for the outfield, and Hallock and C. Root each prevented runs.

All the pitchers, Royce and Colgate's four, were hit enough to keep the crowd, largely representative of Colgate, in continuous suspense; barely an inning went by without one or more men getting on base. Colgate's pitchers all were erratic and to their wildness must be attributed the victory. Still but one of Colgate's runs was clearly earned; the others being due to poor fielding by Erhardt and Knox in not covering on bunts along the base-line.

Colgate earned a run in the fourth on a hit, a sacrifice and a hard grounder over second base. No further scoring came until the sixth, although each team had chances. Perrin was hit and took second when Hammond was safe on Erhardt's error. Kingston bunted and was safe because Knox failed to cover first. With the bases filled, Johnson struck out, but Jones hit a sturdy one out of Root's reach, scoring two. Collins then rapped a long high one to right which hit the grandstand and bounded off toward the frog pond. Before Watkins, who had lost sight of the ball, could recover it, Collins had reached home bringing in Jones ahead of him. This ended Colgate's scoring.

With the score 5-0, Hamilton went into the sixth with determination. Miller doubled to right and scored on Root's two-sacker to the same spot. Ogden walked and so did Royce. With the bases full and two down, Knox grounded sharply to Johnson, who fumbled, allowing Root to score. Erhardt lost the glorious opportunity by grounding weakly to the deadly Hammond.

Again wildness came near giving us the game in the eighth inning. Royce, Knox and Erhardt walked and Royce scored on a wild throw to third. With two men on and none out Miller fanned and so did Root. McMillan grounded to Kingston.

With the bleachers in wildest hope, Hamilton came to their last bat with two runs to the bad. Amidst the uproar Ogden and Turnbull walked. Royce flied out, but Knox came to the rescue with a solid liner to right which scored Ogden and put Turnbull on third. Turnbull tied the score on Erhardt's infield hit, but Knox was caught trying to make third.

In the twelfth Knox went out on a foul, but Erhardt was passed and went to second on Watkin's pretty sacrifice. Miller, amid the tenseness of "two strikes and a hit to win", shouldered the responsibility manfully and banged one to right, which scored Erhardt and thereby set the bell ringing her paeon of victory.

K. P. WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

The big event of Hamilton oratory is at hand. K. P. will be held Wednesday night at 8:00 sharp in the Stone Church. Professor Lewis proudly promises that this year's exhibition will be well worth going miles to witness. All six orations are said to be excellent and the College well knows that the speaking ability of the contestants will provide an evenly balanced exhibition.

The following men have been appointed: Harry Cole Bates will speak on "The American Oligarchy"; William Curtis Knox on "Hamilton's Hundred Years"; Nahum Blackman Pratt on "The American Oligarchy"; Lewis Brill Peters on "Tolstoi"; William Bostwick Marsh on "Law and the Criminal" and Harold William Thompson on "Tolstoi."

The Mandolin Club will furnish music.

HAMILTON TO BE WINNER.

The Intercollegiate Meet is held Decoration Day at Colgate and the best thing we can say is that everybody who can possibly do so should attend, because we're right in line to win that meet. According to report, Colgate men for once are rather timid

DON ROOT HOLDS ROCHESTER SAFE WHILE TEAM BATS IN FOUR RUNS

Are at Last Able to Hit With Men on Bases and Give Root Excellent Support in Pinches. But Two Rochester Men Able to Reach Third.

Yesterday with Don Root having the Rochester batters eating out of his hand, Hamilton amply repaid the 2-1 defeat at Rochester by scoring a shut-out, 4-0. It was a clearcut victory, the kind that brings us happiness. While ably supported in pinches by his team mates, Don Root deserves all credit for the victory. Doling out but two hits and fanning ten, he never permitted Rochester's attack to become a serious menace except in the two innings Rochester had men caught at the plate, once on a beautiful throw by Royce and the second time when I. Schoen was nipped trying to score while Knox held the ball after a pop-fly.

Hamilton retained symptoms of the throwing fever which attacked the players at Hobart, Hallock contributing a couple of cranky heaves and Miller one. Outside of these misplays, however, the only error occurred when C. Root dropped a perfect throw from Ogden in the eighth after Miller had overthrown first by miles trying to catch Schoen asleep.

Otherwise the support given Root was admirable, Knox nipping a mean liner and Turnbull pulling down two long ones after hard running. Besides making a perfect throw to the plate, Royce grabbed Brown's terrific liner in the ninth saving thereby a triple or better and kept Brown from making good his boast that he would secure at least one hit in the game. We were surprised to see Hallock heave a couple over Erhardt's head; Dave is generally pretty accurate.

Fielding features for Rochester were furnished by Caulkins, Kaiser and Chesebro. Rochester had a brace of wild throws to their discredit, but one of them which got by Caulkins in the sixth, did more good than harm since Schoen covered nicely and nipped Royce at the plate by a quick throw.

Rochester started off with a dismaying rush. After Chesebro had fanned I. Schoen grounded sharply to Hallock and took second when Dave threw ten feet over first. Kaiser was the second victim of the strike-out route (notice it), but Brown walked and Benzoni singled between third and short. Schoen tried to score from second, but was nipped by Royce's accurate throw.

in claiming victory. They say that they have absolutely no sprinters, and not much else, and they have all picked Hamilton to win the meet.

With Wenigmann and Riddell in form, first and second places in the hundred and two-twenty are almost certain. Eggleston ought certainly to capture the two-mile, Wenigmann the low hurdles and Eells the high jump. Jessup should place in the half and quarter and Eggleston in the mile. These are the probabilities; there is no telling the possibilities. At any rate, all things point toward a victory for us.

The only chance Rochester had had came in the ninth. Schoen, first man up, was hit by a fast one and received a free one. On Miller's wild throw to catch him napping he took second, and third after C. Root dropped a perfect throw. Kaiser popped to Knox and Schoen, too anxious to tally, was caught on his dash to the plate.

In no other inning did Rochester manage to get a man past second and only a few as far as first; old Don was boring 'em over too fast to meet smackily.

Hamilton tallied one in the second. Knox doubled to right center and took third when Erhardt was safe on Kaiser's error. Erhardt was caught off first but while he was being run down Knox scored.

After a couple of wasted hits Hamilton put across another in the sixth. Royce beat out a slow bouncer to Kaiser and moved up when Kaiser fumbled Turnbull's hard grounder. When Knox flew out to right Royce was safe at third all right but tried to stretch the overthrow and was caught at the plate. Hamilton was not to be denied, however, for Turnbull scored when on Erhardt's Texas-leaguer over second.

Just to feel better, Hamilton tallied two more in the eighth. Turnbull was safe on an infield hit, and moved up twice to make room for Knox and Erhardt who were tendered free tickets. Ogden, pinch hitter for Watkins, rose second. Of course Turnbull and Knox to the occasion and banged one over scored.

Brown, with two out in the ninth, made a desperate effort, but Royce gobbled it and the Chapel bell rang out its note of victory.

Come Out and Sing.

Are we mistaken in believing that "moonlight sings" were to be organized this Spring? At any rate nothing has as yet been done despite the undoubted pleasure such occasions afford. A song or two these glorious nights would add much to the last few hours we shall have together. We are neglecting a custom that finds a great deal of favor elsewhere, and would certainly become popular here.

The Culture Club.

The Culture Club has had its last meeting for the year of 1912. The praiseworthy efforts of a few Seniors in the way of voluntary self-development are over and have had their meed of success. The members learned a little about books and pictures and perhaps developed some little desire for letters. At any rate, it is over, and upon 1913 rests the responsibility of its continuation.

Life believes, however, that its continuance will depend on selecting subjects for discussion nearer to the liking of the students. Rather than to teach men to despise current literature which they will insist upon reading, it might be wise to show them its good points. Such a movement requires considerable experimenting and it sounds like good doctrine to popularize for a time at least the lectures in order to secure an insistent interest.

Honor System Adopted.

The College is to be commended for its hearty endorsement of the honor system. Despite the rapid strides Hamilton has made during this past year, the adoption of the honor system stands pre-eminent among the changes. The College has emancipated itself from dishonesty. Students, Alumni, and Faculty may now proudly declare to the world that at Hamilton "honor rules."

For years we have boasted of our clean athletics and our sportsmanlike conduct and we may, perchance, have sneered at other institutions as being less rigid than ourselves, yet how great our hypocrisy—we have placed athletics on a higher plane than studies. Like the crafty farmer we have been putting garbled apples in the middle of the barrel. But now we are honest throughout.

Mr. Roberts advanced a powerful argument in favor of the honor system when he said that "the influence of the honor system will tend strongly to purify your other phases of college life." We interpret his statement to mean that one result will be cleaner politics. It cannot be otherwise. Fairness pays, always, and now that the College realizes the truth of this maxim, Life looks for a much stronger movement towards clean politics, free from even the vestige of deals. Just as the mind is dwarfed by cheating in examinations, so is it by dabbling in political machinations. A new era is under way when honesty is made the watchword.

While the Faculty must approve the honor system before it shall go into effect, such action is a mere formality and little obstruction need be expected. When a college says it wants the honor system with such unmistakable vehemence as a vote of 125 to 17, its faculty would hardly stand in the way.

1912 IN THE WORLD.

Seniors Intent Upon Choice of Future Work.

Of the 47 Seniors who will receive diplomas in June, 15 have signified their intention of teaching next year, 10 will be in business, 7 in law school, and the remaining 15 will be scattered in various pursuits and occupations, with the exception of Mason and Easingwood, who are looking forward to a long and hard-earned rest with no chapel bells and ding notices to ruffle the repose that shall be theirs. The future pedagogues are Adams, Allen, Alvord, Bedenkapp, DuBourdiou, Erskine, Hughes, Knox, Marsh, Parker, Peters, C. Root, Warren, Watkin and West. Most of these do not expect to continue teaching indefinitely but only for a year or two. The business men are Dorrance, Eddy, Higley, Patteson, Peck, Regin, Riley, Slaughter, Thomas and Watkins. Law will claim Ahlheim, Baird, Bates, Boone, DuBois, Mangan and Thompson. Bagg, Eells, Eggleston, Plant and Walker will continue their studies at other institutions of learning. Farming appeals to Drummond, Hopkins and Pratt, and the class will have at least one financier in "Jimmy" Grant, who has chosen banking as his vocation. Connell will be engaged in Y. M. C. A. work, Hallock will study medicine, and Don Root will serve as an officer in the government constabulary in the Philippines. Donaldson is the only man unaccounted for. Someone suggests South American revolutionist but that is purely hypothetical.

The class benedict will be "Jack" West.

DR. DAVENPORT'S SEMINAR.

The Seminar in Political Science held its last meeting Wednesday night at the home of Dr. Davenport. The evening was devoted to a short examination on Beard's "American Commonwealth", the book read and discussed during the year. In addition to this work, the members of the Seminar contributed to the Hamilton Political Monthly, a collection of short essays on timely topics, and gave a part of each meeting to discussion of politics and government.

Yale is planning to erect a new $700,000 athletic stadium to seat 50,000 persons. The money will be raised by subscription.

An investigation into the average marks of fraternity and non-fraternity men at Cornell shows that the latter lead by about four per cent., the average standing being 70.02 and 73.91 respectively.

COLLEGE ADOPTS HONOR SYSTEM BY OVERWHELMING VOTE OF 125--17

Besides Important Decision Favoring Honor System, Spring Elections were held and a Quantity of Routine Business Disposed of—Faculty took no Action on 9 O'clocks.

By a vote of 125 to 17 the College body last Thursday night adopted the honor system for examinations and written reviews. This dinner being also the occasion of the annual Spring elections, a full quota of business was transacted besides the vote on the honor system. MacGowan, '14, and White, '15, were elected Manager and Assistant Manager respectively of Baseball; Bristol, '14, and K. B. King, '15, Manager and Assistant Manager of Track; Wassung, '13, and Lyon, '14, Manager and Assistant Manager of the Musical Clubs; and MacMillan, '14, Director of Intramural Sports. To break the deadlock in the Lit. Board elections, Simonds, '13, was elected Editor.

The first business after the dishes were cleared away and the cigarettes lighted was the honor system. Three weeks ago, Bedenkapp, '12, called together a committee of Juniors to discuss the best plan of honor system to be put before the College. Accurate information of the working of honor systems in other colleges was obtained and a composite constitution drawn up. The articles were printed in Life and since then the Committee has been exerting itself well to persuade the College to stand out against cribbing. The vote was conclusive of college sentiment.

Pierce and Roberts Speak.

While little opposition to the adoption of the system was expected, the committee had arranged that the college might hear how the honor system works out in Amherst and Williams. Coach Pierce, first to speak, compared cribbing to any other form of theft. "The work done in College is the measure of the man," he said, "and unless the work is honest, the degree cannot honestly be earned." Mr. Pierce told how well Williams men were satisfied with their experience. But one man has been expelled since its adoption in 1897, and but three put on probation, the penalty prescribed for Freshman offenders.

Roberts, Amherst, '11, described the benefits Amherst has derived from the honor system. Since its adoption there in 1905, not one upper-classman has been detected cheating, and but two have been expelled, although two Freshmen have been placed on probation. Mr. Roberts clearly showed the weakness of the only argument against the honor system, namely, that one dislikes to inform against an offender, by explaining how seldom men crib. "The honor system works," he said, "surprisingly well, and if but four men have been detected at Amherst in seven years, there is little probability that more violations will occur here at Hamilton. But few men are faced with the admittedly disagreeable duty of complaining against a friend."

Faculty "Beats It."

After Bedenkapp had wound up the defense with a stirring plea for the adoption of the system, Dr. Wood fled to the open, summoning his Faculty fellows with him so that discussion might be entirely uninfluenced by their presence. Loud cheers, most of them derisive, followed Martin, '11, our Physical Director, as he included himself in "Woodie's" invitation to get thence.

A weighty discussion followed as to whether the Seniors should be allowed a vote. It was finally decided that they could and the ballots were distributed, the Faculty and Martin having resumed their seats meanwhile. The count, 125 to 17, was overwhelmingly in favor of adoption. The Faculty must yet pass its approval on the system before it can go into operation so that even in the event that no further opposition develops, the new plan will not go into effect until next fall.

Elections of Managers.

After this main item of business had been transacted, elections came fast and furious. Baseball, Track, Musical Clubs and Intramural Sports Managers and Assistant Managers were elected, in no case by a close vote.

A long discussion as to how managers and debaters should be rewarded brought forth some excellent oratory and resulted in the decision that silver medals of appropriate design be the emblems of well earned reward. At this point in the tedium, loud cries of "Dribals" made the rafters ring, but "Tammias" didn't seem to be in usual form. The D. T. neophytes, clad in fantastic garb, attempted a song or two but, in lieu of a convenient hook, were ousted by derisive hisses. At some time or other, guess it was here, Dr. Shearer, who will not be with us next year, presented his resignation as Treasurer of the Association, a post he has filled so loyally for the past year. Accepted with regrets and amid loud calls for a speech. The response was brief and to the point. Wild enthusiasm! Prof. Hastings was elected to fill the vacancy.

Action on Gym. Shows.

A five dollar tax was promised for next fall to be collected by the Bursar and then the College passed a resolution read by Plant, '12, deploring certain excesses in "Gym-shows" last fall and went on record as desiring henceforth to avoid their recurrence.

The election of an Editor-in-Chief of Lit. next occupied the College. This unusual proceeding was made necessary by a prolonged deadlock in the Lit. Board over the choice between Batchelor, '13, and Simonds, '13. Simonds was finally selected by the preferential primary and the Lit. Board promises to abide by that decision.

Dr. Saunders, when interviewed, stated that the Faculty had been unable to take any action on the petition presented by the College body to have first hour recitations begin at 9:05, instead of at 8:45.

The dinner was a great success in that it cleared up an immense amount of business far more expeditiously than can possibly be transacted at any other time for College meetings. During the evening, a newly fledged orchestra composed of Wassung, Kultchar, Clark, Heidner and MacGibeny dispensed popular harmonies and led in the good-night "Carissima."

HAMILTONIAN NOT DELAYED.

Lyon, '13, is suffering from a slight attack of intestinal trouble and will be confined to his bed for some time. Despite his illness, the Hamiltonian will be on sale at an early date, the work being under the supervision of Stone.

—Rev. L. G. Colson, '87, was injured by a fall on an iron spike. It was necessary to close the wound with stitches.

—James Stuart Plant, '12, has been awarded one of the University Scholarships at the University of Pennsylvania, where he will do graduate work in psychology next year.

C. C. N. Y. has pledged $50,000 to build a college of Commerce.

The college Y. M. C. A. at Princeton numbers 801, or nearly two-thirds of the entire undergraduate body. This organization, of which most of the leaders in the undergraduate activities are members, has raised over $3,500 from the students alone during the past year.

YALE MEN WILL NOW BE EXAMINED "ON HONOR."

Student Council Will Urge Dismissal of Anyone it Catches "Cribbing". Faculty Pleased.

New Haven, May 19.—For the first time in any Yale department the annual scholarship examinations will be held in June without the presence of professor. The scheme has been frowned upon until several weeks ago the members of the scientific department took up the movement. A tentative proposal was framed and was submitted in turn to the three classes of the school. All voted to adopt the system, and the proposal was placed before the faculty of the institution.

Some slight changes were made, but they were only technical and were accepted cheerfully.

Heretofore faculty members have supervised the examinations and have kept their eyes peeled for "cribbing." Cases of this kind have been infrequent, but the professors have always maintained a sharp lookout. All this will be changed, and every student placed upon his honor. Possible cases of betrayal of confidence will be taken charge of by the student council, a sort of undergraduate senate, which was formed some time ago to deal with cases of student government. It will call upon the faculty to demand the resignation from college of any offender. It is believed that other departments of the university will adopt the system.

Over ninety colleges and universities are represented by the students enrolled in the Graduate College of the University of Michigan.

A club for the non-fraternity men of the college is being organized at Bowdoin.

Of thirty-eight Seniors elected to Phi Beta Kappa at Nebraska University, thirty-one were co-eds, of which there are 1785 in the university.

Parsons College has taken a definite stand against gambling on athletic contests. This is a very common evil, no matter whether the contest be intercollegiate or merely within the college. It is unsportsmanlike and often leads to questionable tactics, especially when the players have placed money.

As usual, the women elected to Phi Beta Kappa in co-educational institutions far outnumber the men. At Wisconsin the proportion was 2 to 1, and at Northwestern University 24 out of 29 were women.

Union celebrates on June 1st in an historical pageant the 250th anniversary of the settling of Schenectady.

Yale has 17,002 living graduates.

Union by a unanimous vote has adopted the no-treat system.

It is said that Barnard will adopt the honor system.

Harvard leads in the number of graduates who become authors at the completion of their course.

The graduating class at the University of Wisconsin, instead of following the usual custom of giving a tablet or similar gift to the college as a class memorial, will establish a loan fund for the use of needy students. They have voted to appropriate $400 from the class treasury as a foundation for the fund.

To increase the attendance of alumni at class reunions Commencement Week the class of 1901 at Princeton will award a silver loving cup each year to the class having the largest percentage of its living alumni back.

The faculty at Williams has revised the curriculum to meet the requests presented to them in a petition by the students.

Because practically all the candidates have been declared ineligible intercollegiate baseball has been abolished at Minnesota for one year. The squads of the other "Big Nine" universities have also been sadly depleted by the summer baseball ruling.

COLGATE WINS FIRST GAME BY CLOSE SCORE

Exciting Contest at Hamilton with Sharp Fielding a Feature—Luckv Stop of Drive Prevents Victory.

Last Wednesday, in a game marked by snappy fielding and all around good baseball, Hamilton lost the first game with Colgate on this season's schedule, by the score of 3 to 2. Colgate played errorless ball, while the Hamilton team offended but twice, neither slip materially affecting the score. Coach Pierce's men batted well, although their hits were kept rather well scattered by the Colgate twirler. On the other hand Colgate hit the ball hard, and only in one inning did they fail to get men on bases. The fact that the Colgate men did not score more was due to fast fielding, coupled with Root's effective pitching in pinches. Twice did Hamilton men shine in fielding. The first instance came in the third inning, when with two down and Kingston on first base, Johnston hit a hard drive down the third base line. Captain Root, who was forced to play in that position because Glover was injured, made a beautiful stop and threw the runner out at first, thus retiring the side. In the eighth, after Kingston had hit to Knox and was safe on the latter's error, he stole second. Johnston then hit a low drive to left center, but Turnbull came in, and making a remarkable catch, doubled Kingston off second. Hallock made a pretty catch of Robinson's high fly in the fourth with two down and men on second and third.

Colgate started the mill by tallying one in the first inning. McLaughlin, who is reported to have a standing offer to join the Boston Nationals, made the first of his four singles, was sacrificed to second by Robinson and scored on Platt's single to left. Colgate added two more in the sixth and they proved to be just enough to win. Collins, the first man up, singled. Ralph forced Collins at second, Hallock to Knox. McLaughlin singled, Ralph taking third; McLaughlin later stole second. Robinson fanned, but Platt hit a hard drive to center which got by Turnbull and allowed Ralph and McLaughlin to score. It is possible that McLaughlin might have been cut off at the plate if Turnbull had not erred.

Hamilton tied the score in the fourth inning. Captain Root, the first hitter, made Hamilton's first mark in the hit column with a long fly to right center which was good for two sacks. With the umpire registering "Two and Three" on Knox, Ralph grooved one where Curt likes 'em, and another drive to right scored "Chas" and put Knox on second. After Royce had fouled out to Robinson, Knox was caught off second, Ralph to Kingston to Johnston to Hammond, and Hammond threw Turnbull out at first. Hamilton's second tally came in the sixth. Erhardt singled, advancing "Long John" to second. With Jones standing on the bag, Hallock drove one down the first base line right into the first baseman's hands, and Watkins was doubled. "But the end was not yet." Ray Lyon's single scored Erhardt. Lyon stole second. Don Root singled, but Lyon was stopped at third. Miller ran for Root, and when he started to steal second Johnston started for the bag and got there just in time to nail Root's apparently safe drive over the bag, and Miller was forced at the bag.

ANNUAL Y. M. C. A. REPORT.

Bedenkapp Deplores Lack of Interest Big Men of College Take in Y. M. C. A. Work.

Bedenkapp, the retiring president of the Y. M. C. A., made his report at the afternoon service in Chapel last Sunday. He said in brief: "Owen Johnston said recently that College men are asleep; that they are not living up to their responsibility. Now, while this is not altogether true in this College, it is to a great extent true; and it is the purpose and intent of the Christian Association to counteract this spirit, and to formulate in men a life of unselfishness and service. Great steps have been taken in that direction during this last year; the grand work of the deputation teams bears witness. I can truly say that this has been a fine year; but we want this next one to be the best ever. And I sincerely think it will."

—Thomas M. Sherman, '02, of the Yahnundasis Golf Club of Utica, won the title to the "president's cup" offered to the winner of the first 16 at the annual spring tournament of the Chevy Chase Club in Washington last Saturday.

HOBART'S PITCHERS ARE FOUND FOR MANY HITS

Hamilton has no difficulty in Winning Both Games at Geneva Saturday—Players Hammer Ball with Vengeance.

Not discouraged by the narrow defeat at Rochester the Team journeyed to Geneva and, with vengeance in eye, soundly trounced Hobart in both games to a double header. All had been laying for Hobart ever since rain prevented the first game scheduled at Clinton. When here one of the Hobart men had remarked that they surely would win at least one game, but he was not in evidence Saturday—perhaps that was why we won, who knows?

In the first game Meikeljohn got by the first inning all right, but that was all. On a base on balls and two hits, one run was tallied in the second. In the third the runs began to pour in, sharp hitting being responsible for most of them although the the Hamilton baserunners took long chances because of the wild throwing of the Hobart infielders. Hobart was doomed when Turnbull's tremendous drive went for three bases and brought in three men. After that, the bombardment was kept up until fifteen runs were scored.

With the score 9-1 against them Hobart started on a desperate rally in the fifth and, aided by crazy throwing by the Hamilton infield and by five of their seven hits at opportune times, cleaned up five runs off Ogden and two more off Don Root who had been hurried to the rescue. After that inning, Hobart went out in order, but Hamilton, just to sew the game up safe, batted in six more.

Hobart's pitchers were easy after Harding and the players took advantage of the glorious opportunity to fatten their averages—every man on the team getting a hit in the first game with Watkins, C. Root, Knox and Turnbull leading in variety and solidity. What little fielding ability was shown at times was offset by the miserable wildness in the fourth. It was a great batfest, however, and we give due credit.

The second game was cut to five innings to allow the Hamilton team to catch a train. Had it gone the nine innings the score would easily have gone into two figures as the Team was hammering Hobart's pitcher just as hard as in the first game, while Don Root was holding his opponents safely. Only in the first inning was Hobart able to squeeze in a run on two hits and an infield out. After that but one man reached first and he died there.

C. Root singled to start the game and scored on a sacrifice, a stolen base and an infield out. In the second hits by Knox, Erhardt, Ogden, Miller and Don Root drove in four runs, and in the fifth, two more were scored when Miller was hit by a pitched ball and brought in by C. Root's double into deep right field. Root scored on Hallock's double.

WITH HARDING IN FORM
ROCHESTER WINS AT HOME

Team Unable to Hit Delivery of the Rochester Pitcher, at that, Stupid Baserunning Cost at Least One Run.

Hamilton lost to Rochester last Friday at Rochester in the best played game of the season by a score of 2-1. From the very beginning the game resolved itself into a pitcher's battle with Harding leading all the way through. Allowing but two hits and possessing perfect control of a quick breaking spitter, he was but once in danger outside of the inning he was scored on. Royce, while not stingy with base hits, was steady and kept the safe ones scattered except in the third inning when Rochester scored all their runs on bunched hits and an infield out.

Hamilton's single tally came in the fifth. Erhardt was safe at first on a low throw, went to second on Watkins' sacrifice, and scored when Forsyth fumbled Royce's hard drive. A beautiful chance to break up the game came in the fourth, but owing to stupid base running a double play with men on second and third with no one out sealed our fate for that time and evoked mutterings from Coach Pierce. C. Root singled sharply to open the inning and stole second and third. Knox walked and went to second on the first pitch. It looked as though we had at last got to Harding and would score at least a brace of runs, but the next two minutes produced a kaleidoscopic change of front in the attacking forces. Don Root, the next man up, knocked a hard one towards first but Schoen made a beautiful stop and threw to Brown at the plate in time to prevent C. Root from scoring. Root, perceiving himself caught, attempted to regain third but after being chased back and forth was run down and put out. Knox made a late attempt to make third but he in turn was run down by the whole Rochester team and tagged. When the dust cleared away, Don Root was left on second with two down. Turnbull closed the inning with a drive to second.

Rochester took the lead in the third and was never headed. After Yorkey had fanned, Harding beat out a bunt. Chesebro singled putting Harding on second. With the count two and three and the Rochester stands imploring him to "Line 'er out", Schoen cracked out a two-bagger which scored Harding and sent Chesebro to third. The latter came in while Kaiser was being thrown out at first.

Outside of these innings neither team could do anything with the brand of pitching that was being served up. Both Harding and Royce steamed them over to the utter discomfiture of the batters. Even when our men did hit the ball, no smack resounded and nine fanned at Harding's dazzling spit-ball and well-controlled speed.

Fielding features were furnished by C. Root, who captured a high foul after a run to the bleachers, and by Hallock who cut off a score by a brilliant stop of Skiff's liner.

SOPHS HOLD LAST DEBATE.

Owing to its Great Success the Club Will be Perpetuated.

The Sophomore Debate Club held the last meeting of the year on Monday evening in Silliman Hall. The proposition for the debate was: Resolved, "The standing army of the United States should be increased." Royce, Jessup and Dayton were on the affirmative, while Barnes, Pohl and Mengerink upheld the negative. The judges, Alvord, '12, Peck and Simonds, '13, awarded a unanimous decision to the affirmative. A feed was held in South directly after the meeting.

The Club, conceived and organized by a few of the more energetic members of the class of 1914 to stimulate interest in practical debate work, has really proved an immense success. One of the judges in commenting on a debate said: "I had no idea that your organization was so strong, your men so capable and interested. The Club will be a tremendous help to the Intercollegiate Debate Team." Since the Club has proved to be practical, it is the plan of the organizers to perpetuate it as a Sophomore society. To this end two debates will be held the first two weeks of Fall term to which eight men of the present Freshman Class desirous of joining will be invited. Applications for membership may then be made by any members of the class of 1915 to these eight men. The outgoing president will attend their first meeting and offer any suggestions necessary.

The officers of the past year are as follows: President, Marsh; vice-president, Carmer; secretary-treasurer, Regin. The other members are Barnes, Booth, Cole, Dayton, Evans, Gates, Jessup, McMillan, Mengerink, Pohl, Rhodes, Royce, Walker and Williamson.

PHI BETA KAPPA LECTURE.

Most of the local members of Phi Beta Kappa attended the meeting held in Root Hall on Friday night, when Dr. H. R. Hastings spoke on "Discoveries in Crete." The lecture was illustrated by a set of slides belonging to Dr. Foreman of Cornell.

The Minoan Age which the recent Cretan discoveries date was about 1200 B. C. Crete was then the center of the world's civilization. Most of the slides showed the excavations of the palace at Knossos, the royal seat of the Minoan kings. From the discoveries there, students have gained a very close idea of the civilization and customs of the time. For instance, some of the statuettes found, show that the dress and figure of the women of that day was very similar to that of ours.

Dr. Hastings had visited the scene of these discoveries and spoke of them from personal knowledge.

After the meeting Dr. Wood and Dr. Shearer were hosts for refreshments at Commons.

MANY GOING TO NORTHFIELD.

Are you looking forward to attending the Northfield Student Conference this year? About thirty fellows expect to represent Hamilton but President Thompson of the Y. M. C. A. is not content with this number. Unlike other years, the Conference is scheduled at a most convenient time for us, extending as it does from June 21 to 30. Special rates for delegates have been granted by the railroads, so that $4.50 will cover expenses to and from Troy.

Little need be said about the pleasures to be had at Northfield, for those who have attended in past years have given full accounts of their pursuits. Several prominent lecturers have been secured for this summer, among them being Robert E. Speer, John R. Mott and Dr. D. S. Cairns of Edinburgh University. Classes for Bible and Mission study will be held as usual as well as the extremely popular "life-work discussions."

The social features of the week are a potent factor in drawing men thither. Besides the opportunity afforded to talk over problems with men actively engaged in Y. M. C. A. work, athletic contests are held every day and the river and woods become very popular in the warm June days. It is camp life with a disciplinary purpose in a beautiful spot among college men. Come along.

A COMMUNICATION.

Oak Park, Ill., May 24, 1912.

Hamilton Life:

Gentlemen—I notice in your issue of May 21 the following item: "A small issue of Hamilton Record came out last week containing a brief account of trustee meeting, Commencement and Hill Notes, and obituaries on the deaths of Prof. Ward, '96, and Geo. W. Knox, '74." May I ask you for a small space in your next issue to publish a little news item of my own? To wit: An issue of the Hamilton Lit. came out last week with not one single item of Alumni news in it.

ST. LAWRENCE WINS DUAL TRACK MEET AT CANTON

Williams Upsets Predictions by Winning Dashes and Low Hurdles—Wenigmann Collects Twenty Points.

The dual meet with St. Lawrence at Canton Saturday resulted in a victory for the northern institution by ten points. The meet was hotly contested from start to finish as the score of 63 to 53 shows. Wenigmann was the individual star of the day, winning a first and five seconds for a total of 20 points. Sweet of St. Lawrence was second with 16 points and Williams of St. Lawrence third with 15 to his credit. Captain Eggleston won both the mile and two mile easily, doing the latter in 10:18 1-5 without having to extend himself. Hamilton captured all three places in the half mile Hahn winning with Carmer and Lee close behind him. Although disappointed with the outcome Coach Risley does not consider St. Lawrence a dangerous rival in the Intercollegiate, for Riddell, who was unable to make the trip to Canton is running both the dashes in better time than Williams, and Eells may ordinarily be counted on to do 5-8. Wenigmann got a bad start in the low hurdles and lost by barely a foot, while True after taking second in the high hurdles was disqualified for knocking down a third hurdle.
